

FHH Team Ministers to Holocaust Survivors

FHH director Paul Shorb, was recently in Israel with a team of volunteers from FHH and provides our newsletter readers this report of the time they spent with holocaust survivors there:

During our time in Israel we had the opportunity to minister to a number of Holocaust survivors. We hosted two lunches in which we were able to serve them and provide a temporary time of peace and joy. Each holocaust survivor received a scarf made by FHH volunteers and a pocket knife. One of the survivors shared a story about how he had fled from the Germans before he was put in a concentration camp. My heart's cry was for him to understand the hope we have in Jesus. You see, they have no family: their families were wiped out in the concentration camps. The only family they have are other survivors, who are now between 70 and 95 years old. Each month more members of this "family" pass away, and many of the ones who remain are in poor health and suffer severe pain. It was a great honor to be able to share the love of Jesus with each one of these precious people. God is so interested in their lives and their time in eternity with Him.

Silent Auction A Fun-Filled Success

A big thank you to everyone who helped to make our March silent auction a big success and raised money for building on our base property. The over sixty people who came to the event enjoyed a delicious dinner and heard Darryl Carnley's insightful and engaging presentation on The 360 Project, a ministry to employ people in impoverished areas, making shoes for children lacking them. Bidding was lively for exciting auction items such as a shofar trumpet and a prayer shawl from Israel, a handmade concrete garden bench in the shape of the Seahawks logo, and a trip to see the wildflowers of Mount Rainier. This was our first auction, we learned a lot and had a lot of fun. It will be 10 times better next year, so we hope to see you next March!

Director's Corner:

When you feel helpless, where can you turn? I suggest you turn to one of Jesus' most intriguing teachings about prayer! Luke tells the story of a persistent neighbor looking to borrow bread at midnight. Imagine it's you ringing the doorbell. The door opens. "What are you doing here?" he asks. You answer, "A friend of mine has arrived for a visit, and I've nothing for him to eat." Finally he takes you to his pantry. As a result, your surprise guest doesn't have to go to bed hungry--all because you spoke up on behalf of someone else. This is intercessory prayer at its purest. This is a prayer that we need.

We need your prayers for planning the development of our new base. It is hard to understand all the needs of the future and plan for them. Would you help us by praying and asking GOD for the right facilities for the future? Would you be willing to give to that future? Paul
