Life Group Helps New Base Take Shape

Construction at the YWAM-FHH property on Case Road recently got a boost from a LifeGroup from True Grace Church in Lacey. Members regularly meet for Bible study and spiritual growth, but wanted to contribute their time and energy in a meaningful service project. They organized their own Saturday work party to work on repairs needed on the facilities at the property. The group of volunteers included Alan Benningfield, Rod and Cece Erickson, Marge and Dennis Johnson, Craig and Lori Ralls and Paul Robischon. They worked on a storage shed and two pump houses to replace a roof, repair roof access lid and give a coat of fresh paint. Members of this team are knowledgeable about well water and pump systems, so they did a little testing and research and plan to make recommendations for future improvement.

Calling All Quilters and Sewers!

YWAM-FHH is looking for quilters and sewers to help make beautiful quilts and sewn items that will minister around the world. According to lead quilter Linda Johnson, experience is not necessary and anyone can learn and help. The quilting team meets on Thursdays from 11 am to 4 pm. Come as often as you like and stay as long as you wish. Lunch is provided. The quilters also welcome donations of fabric and twin-size bed sheets. If you are interested in participating or having more information, contact Linda Johnson at (360) 489-1469.

Welcome, Mission Builders!

YWAM-FHH has been blessed with the arrival of new Mission Builders to its base on Case Road. Mission Builders is associated with Youth With A Mission, and provide practical, hands-on help to missions world-wide.

Terry and Rod Stevens will join us through October, using one of the new RV hook-ups installed at the base. Newly retired and from Arizona, this is their first Mission Builder placement. Rod is an electrician and Terry is a project manager. They will be involved in the development of the base, starting with repair of the barn, installation of more RV hook-ups, installation of restrooms and showers, and inventorying and organizing equipment at the base.

Michael, Talea, and 10-month old Rebecca Cook joined us from a YWAM base in California. Michael has repaired the heavy machinery, mowed, and painted. The Cook family wishes to pioneer a care center in Washington for YWAM members and other Christians.

Shoes For the Poor

YWAM-FHH wishes to thank all the volunteers who worked at the May garage sale and all the buyers who helped to make the event a success. Proceeds went to the 360 Aware Project to purchase 30 pair of shoes for the poor in the Philippines and matching funds purchased an additional 30 pairs.

Director's Corner:

We're all involved in the work of making disciples (Matthew 28:19-20). The question is, whose disciples are we making? Every single day, through your words, actions, or even inaction, you draw someone near to Christ or push them away. What is the Gospel according to you? Who's reading the Gospel you're writing today? Is it a family member or maybe your neighbor? It could even be the young man who brings you your pizza or bags your groceries. The point is that the world is watching, and what they think of Jesus may come down to what they think of you. As we continue to grow into the image God has for us as a group of believers attempting to make a difference, I am asking God to make all of us attentive to disciple-making opportunities. I am praying for His grace, wisdom, and strength to show others the love of Christ. As Christ assures you in today's passage, "I am with you always, to the very end of the age." — Paul
